

January 2002

Editor's Notes

Donovan M. Steltzner

Follow this and additional works at: <https://scholarlycommons.law.case.edu/cuslj>

 Part of the Transnational Law Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Donovan M. Steltzner, Editor's Notes, 28 Can.-U.S. L.J. [ix] (2002)

Available at: <https://scholarlycommons.law.case.edu/cuslj/vol28/iss/3>

This Front Matter is brought to you for free and open access by the Student Journals at Case Western Reserve University School of Law Scholarly Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in Canada-United States Law Journal by an authorized administrator of Case Western Reserve University School of Law Scholarly Commons.

EDITOR'S NOTES

Published in this issue of the Canada-United States Law Journal are the proceedings of a Conference held under the auspices of the Canada-United States Law Institute and Case Western Reserve University School of Law. The Conference, its theme being Energy, the Environment and Natural Resources in the Canada/U.S. Context, took place on April 19-21, 2002.

The articles and discussions printed here have been compiled from transcripts of the Conference and papers submitted by the speakers. Our editing process attempts to strike a balance between retaining the spirit of the Conference and maintaining the Journal's overall readability. Questions regarding factual assertions in the text should be addressed to the authors.

We have strived to make this volume of the Journal the best-edited and most carefully-researched volume in the Institute's nearly 30-year history. As a default rule, footnotes in the Journal comply with the format suggested by The Bluebook: A Uniform System of Citation (17th ed.), and, when necessary, have been amalgamated with citation forms adapted from the Canadian Guide to Uniform Legal Citation (4th ed.). The text generally conforms to the Chicago Manual of Style (14th ed.).

The creation of Volume 28 of the Canada-United States Law Journal has been a "labor of love," but it would not have been accomplished without substantial contributions from everyone involved in the process. Special thanks go to Kelly Cusick, Executive Articles Editor for this Volume, who is one of the best text editors I have ever worked with, catching syntax errors that neither my authors nor I found or corrected. Many thanks also go out to Julianna Herrick, editor in chief of Volume 27, who taught me most of the things I know; to Julie Kraus, for being an ear for my concerns; to Professor Henry King, who has been extraordinarily patient with me and whose dedication to the Institute is an inspiration to all who follow his lead; to Alice Simon, for answering various and sundry questions; to Andy Dorchak, who assisted me in finding a few obscure references; and to all the members of the executive board of Case Western Reserve Journal of International Law, for putting up with my virtually continuous occupancy of the editing computer over these last few months. Of course, this Volume would have not been possible without the willingness of the many leaders in business, law and government from both sides of our vast northern border to come to the Conference and share their thoughts with those of us who were fortunate enough to have the opportunity to listen to them.

May all who read this book gain knowledge.

Donovan M. Steltzner
Editor In Chief
October 14, 2002

