1990

EEC Law: A Practical Guide

Christine Alice Corcos
EEC Law: A Practical Guide

Christine Alice Corcos*

I. Introduction ............................................ 196

II. General Information About the EEC .................... 197
   A. Founding and History ............................ 197
   B. General Works on the EEC ...................... 198
       1. Printed Indexing and Abstracting Services 198
       2. Online Indexing and Abstracting Services 199
   C. Bibliography of EEC Publications ............... 200
       1. Monographs .................................. 200
       2. Periodicals ................................ 201
   D. Addresses of European Community Institutions .... 201

III. Sources of EEC law ...................................... 203
   A. Treaties, Conventions and Agreements .......... 204
   B. Official Sources of Ordinary Legislation ...... 206
   C. Doing EC Legislative History .................... 207
   D. Databases ....................................... 208
       1. CELEX ....................................... 208
       2. JUSTIS ..................................... 208
       3. EC 1992 ...................................... 209
       4. IFO 92 ....................................... 209
       5. LEXIS ....................................... 209
       6. POLIS ....................................... 209
       7. SPEARHEAD .................................. 209
       8. PROFILE ..................................... 210
       9. SPICERS CENTRE FOR EUROPE ............... 210
   E. General Bibliography on the European Economic Communities ..................................... 210
       1. General Works ............................... 210
       2. Bibliographies, Directories and Research Aids 211
       3. Periodical Indices ........................... 212
       4. Specialized Works ............................ 212
          a. Agriculture ............................. 212
          b. Application of EEC law in Member Nations 212
          c. Business and Trade Law ................. 214

* Head of Public Services, Case Western Reserve Library; M.A. Michigan State University, 1975; A.M.L.S., University of Michigan, 1979; J.D., Case Western Reserve University, 1990.
d. Foreign Policy .................................. 214
e. Information Policy .............................. 214
f. Labor Law ...................................... 214
g. The Legal System .............................. 215
h. Professions and Services ........................ 216
i. Taxation ....................................... 216

F. Current Awareness Services for EEC Issues ........ 216

IV. The Structure of the EEC ........................ 218
A. The European Commission .......................... 218
B. The Council of Ministers ............................. 219
C. The Court of Justice of the European Communities ... 220
   1. Structure of the Court ........................... 220
   2. Court Reports .................................. 221
   3. Other Court Publications .......................... 222
   4. Digests and Finding Aids .......................... 223
   5. Specialized Reporters ............................. 223
   6. Bibliography ................................... 223
D. The EEC Legislative Process in Brief .............. 224
E. The European Parliament ............................. 225
   1. Structure of the European Parliament .......... 225
   2. Bibliography of EP official publications ........ 225

V. Subagencies of the EEC .............................. 228
A. European Patent Office .............................. 228
B. Economic and Social Committee “ECOSOC or ESC” ... 229
C. European Coal and Steel Consultative Committee ...... 229
D. European Court of Auditors .......................... 230
E. European Investment Bank ............................. 230
F. Convention of Lomé Institutions .................... 230

VI. Emerging issues: The Single European Act .......... 230
VII. Conclusion ........................................... 232

I. INTRODUCTION

This pathfinder is intended to help researchers address problems in European Economic Community (“EEC” or “EC”) law. It is not an exhaustive source of EEC materials; rather its purpose is to introduce the user to the major sources of EEC law and policy. Further, this source is designed to help the researcher discover additional sources that can aid in the analysis, and successful resolution, of legal problems involving the EEC.
II. GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE EEC

A. Founding and History

The European Economic Community, which consists of twelve European countries, was founded in 1957 by the Treaty of Rome.\(^1\) Their dependencies and some former colonies have more limited ties with the EEC through the Lomé Convention of 1979.\(^2\) The EEC's predecessor was the Common Market, which was comprised of three organizations: the European Coal and Steel Community, the European Economic Community and the European Atomic Energy Community, founded in 1951 and 1957.\(^3\) On July 1, 1967 the three organizations merged to form the EEC.\(^4\) On December 31, 1992 the twelve nations will merge completely at the supra-national level to form a united Western Europe.

The dream of a united Europe emerged after the Second World War as a response to what seemed to be the inevitability of hostility among the European nations. Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, declared on May 9, 1950 that as a first step, the French and German coal and steel industries be merged under one “High Authority.”\(^5\) Because of the ancient rivalry and enmity between the French and Germans over these industries, Schuman's proposal was viewed as quite revolutionary. The European Coal and Steel Community\(^6\) (“ECSC”) became a reality in Paris on April 18, 1951.

Although the six members tried to establish a European Defense Community and a European Political Community the effort was not suc-

---

\(^1\) Treaty Establishing the European Economic Community, Mar. 25, 1957, 298 U.N.T.S. 1 [hereinafter EEC Treaty]. The EEC consists of twelve European countries: the United Kingdom, France, Spain, Portugal, Italy, West Germany, Denmark, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece, Luxembourg, and Ireland. A. Winter, R. Sloan, G. Lehner, & V. Ruiz, Europe Without Frontiers: A Lawyer's Guide 3 (BNA Corporate Practice Series, 1989) [hereinafter Europe Without Frontiers]. The work is also available on disk from the Bureau of National Affairs.

\(^2\) Second ACP-EEC Convention of Lomé, 19 I.L.M. 327 (1980);

“The main feature of the [European] Community policy towards developing countries is the [Lomé Convention] which establishes commercial, industrial, and financial relations between African, fifty seven Caribbean and Pacific countries on the one hand and the Community and nine Member States on the other.”

\(^5\) Introduction to the Law, supra note 4, at 1; The Substantive Law of the European Communities 3 (2d ed. 1987).

\(^6\) Treaty Establishing the European Coal and Steel Community, Apr. 18, 1951, 261 U.N.T.S. 229 [hereinafter Coal and Steel Treaty]. The six 'original members were Belgium, France, West Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, and the Netherlands. Europe Without Frontiers, supra note 1, at 3.
cessful. However, they did adopt the Spaak Report which called for the drafting and ratification of further treaties of cooperation and friendship. As a result, new treaties establishing the European Economic Community and the European Atomic Energy Community ("EURATOM") were adopted. These treaties developed in large part due to the work of Jean Monnet, the first President of the High Authority of the ECSC.

According to the Treaties, any European state may request membership in the EEC.

In an effort to promote closer cooperation among the member nations, the EEC has established the European Parliament ("EP"), to which members are directly elected by the citizens of the member nations, the European Monetary System, and other organizations and agencies.

To become acquainted with the EEC material a researcher should look at a good general introduction by an acknowledged authority on the EEC, such as Reynolds’ bibliography, “Introduction to the European Economic Community: Its History and Its Institutions,” 8 Leg. Ref. Serv. Q. 7 (1988).

B. General Works On the EEC

Finding EEC publications and information can be a bewildering process. A comprehensive and up to date index to all EEC publications does not exist, and a hunt for relevant information will take the researcher through printed, online and CD-ROM services. Scanning “current awareness” tools is sometimes the only efficient method of finding relevant information quickly.

1. Printed Indexing and Abstracting Services

EC Index

Although the EC Index was shortlived (1984-1986), it lists all of the publications of major European Community institutions either self-pub-

---

9 Atomic Energy Treaty, supra note 3, art. 225.

10 EEC Treaty, supra note 1, art. 8. Since 1958 six other nations have joined the community: Denmark, Ireland, the United Kingdom, Greece, Spain and Portugal. Id.

11 Id. art. 137.

12 Id.
lished or published by the Office for Official Publications ("OOP"). These include joint publications, and publications of the Commission of the European Communities, the Secretariat-General of the Commission, the Directorates-General of the Commission, Eurostat (the Commission's statistical agency), the various branches of the Commission (the Council, the European Parliament, and the Court of Justice ("ECJ")), the Economic and Social Committee ("ECOSOC"), the Court of Auditors, and the European Investment Bank. Thus, one can find Working Documents of the EP and the Council, case decisions (indexed in the Information and Notices, Official Journal), ECOSOC opinions, studies, and reports, decisions, directives and regulations, and opinions of the Court of Justice Advocates General in the EC Index.

EUROVOC

EUROVOC: Annex to the Index of the Official Journal of the European Communities, which began publishing in 1984, is a thesaurus for terms used in European Community publications as well as a locator for EEC materials.

Another printed index to EEC publications is G. Pau (comp.), Index of COM Documents, an annual published by Euroinformation. This index began publication in 1982.

2. Online Indexing and Abstracting Services

EUROPE DATA

EUROPE DATA (Maastricht, the Netherlands) is a joint venture between Elsevier Publishing Company and the Limburg Industrial Development Bank. Europe Data is marketing the European Legal Literature Information Service ("ELLIS") in cooperation with the European Law Centre. ELLIS indexes monographs on EEC law in hundreds of journals worldwide.

SCAD

SCAD is the EC's database of citations to official EC documents. Although it does not give the complete text of these documents, it offers a more comprehensive method of verifying their existence than combing through pages of printed indices. Entries are in all official languages, but French is still the dominant one, so that some documents are retrievable only or most easily through a search in French.13 A subset of SCAD, called SCAD-92, will offer citations to materials pertaining to the completion of integration in 1992.14 Contact the EC directly for information

---

13 Hensley, European Community Databases: Online to Europe, DATABASE, Dec. 1989, at 45, 47.
14 Id.
on access to SCAD.

C. Bibliography of EEC Publications

The Commission of the European Communities publishes various surveys and directories useful for the researcher. Of the various publications, Europe: Magazine of the European Community, is the most accessible and entertaining for the U.S. reader. It is heavily illustrated and contains a wide variety of articles on various EEC topics. Each issue contains a listing of current and available EEC publications with an order form.

In addition to the publications listed below, several bibliographical articles are available to introduce the researcher to EEC law. Unless otherwise indicated all of these publications are available either from the Commission's main office or from the Publications Section, European Community, 2100 M Street N.W., 7th Floor, Washington, D.C. 20037.

1. Monographs

The following titles are a sampling of the range of materials available from the EC.

European Community Budget. Free of charge (annual).

Europe Without Frontiers—Completing the Internal Market. Free of charge (annual). A basic work for EEC researchers.

Current publications are also listed in Documentation Bulletin Series A, Series B, and Cumulative List, Series C. Series A lists recent EEC legislation and documents and articles on EEC law in journals, all with appropriate annotations. Series B brings together citations on specific subjects. Series C lists materials on topics broader in scope than Series A and updates Series A listings. However, for a complete and retrospective list of EEC publications, see Publications of the European Communities—Catalogue which lists all available publications and is updated by the Bulletin of the European Communities.

The free publication, European Community as a Publisher, also lists current EEC titles and is available free of charge. Other publications listing EEC titles include the List of Additions to the Library, which is an accessions list of materials received at the Commission of the European Communities library during the period covered. See also List of the Publications of the European Communities in English (1972) updating the Catalogue of the Publications of the European Communities 1952-1971 (1972), which was originally published in French.

2. Periodicals

The following is a sampling of the range of periodicals available.

European Economy.

Results of the Business Survey Carried Out Among Managements in the Community.

Periodic Catalogue of COM Documents. Invaluable for locating internal EC documents.

Documentation Bulletin A.

List of Additions to the Library.

Women of Europe.

European University News.

European Info.

Bulletin of the European Communities. Free of charge.

D. Addresses of European Community Institutions

Obtaining EEC publications has become easier since European integration became a focused goal for 1992. EC offices in major world capitals provide free copies of many publications to interested persons and businesses, although not every office distributes publications of all the Directorates-General. The addresses of the major EC offices and the publications which they distribute are listed below.

1. Main Offices

Commission of the European Communities
rue de la Loi, 200
B-1049 Brussels, Belgium
Telephone: (32.2)235.1111

Publications available from: Secretariat General,
Directorates General I-XII, XIV-XX, Spokesmens' Group.

Commission of the European Communities
bâtiment Jean Monnet
rue Alcide de Gasperi
L-2920 Luxembourg
Telephone: (352)43011

Publications available from: Directorates-General XIII, Eurostat.

Council of the European Communities
rue de la Loi, 170
B-1048 Brussels, Belgium
Telephone: (32.2)235.6111

Publications available from: Council of the EC.

Court of Justice of the European Communities
plateau du Kirchberg
BP 1406
L-2920 Luxembourg
Telephone: (352)43101

Publications available from: Internal Services Branch.

European Parliament
Centre européen
plateau du Kirchberg
L-2920 Luxembourg
Telephone: (352)43001

Publications available from: Secretariat General,
Directorates-General I-V.

European Parliament
rue Belliard, 93
B-1040 Brussels, Belgium
Telephone: (32.2)234.2111
Publications available from: Directorate-General III (Press and Information).

Economic and Social Committee
rue Ravenstein, 2
B-1000 Brussels, Belgium
Telephone: (32.2)512.3920

European Investment Bank
bd. Konrad Adenauer, 100
L-2950 Luxembourg
Telephone: (352)43791

2. United States Offices

Commission of the European Communities
2100 M Street N.W.
Suite 707
Washington, D.C. 20037
Telephone: (201)862-9500

Commission of the European Communities
1 Dag Hammerskjold Plaza
245 East 47st Street
New York, NY 10017
Telephone: (212)371-3804

Publications available from: European Community Information Service (same address).

Note that in all EEC countries, and in various other non-member countries, the EEC designates sales agents. A current list is available from the main office of the Commission of the European Communities.

III. SOURCES OF EEC LAW

Any research into EEC law must begin with an understanding of the sources of power in the European Economic Community and the relationship of its various organs. Because it is an ambitious attempt to link existing nations each with its own governmental structure and traditions, its task is a delicate and difficult one. For general information on the role and structure of international and supranational organizations, see (among others) P.F. Diehl, The Politics of International Organizations
A. Treaties, Conventions, and Agreements

The Treaty of Rome and associated founding treaties provide for four basic structures which govern the EEC: the European Parliament (also called the Assembly), the Council, the Commission, and the Court of Justice.

The source for the structure of the EEC is the Treaty of Rome which enumerates the European Economic Community's principles and general procedural outline. For nearly forty years the EEC has been generating an immense output of publications which only recently have come under any sort of bibliographic control. The founding treaties and accompanying documents are available in Treaties Establishing the European Communities: Treaties Amending These Treaties: Single European Act: Resolutions, Declarations (1987). Earlier compilations appeared in 1978 and 1973. All are published by the Office of Official Publications. Amendments and changes appear in the Official Journal of the European Communities.

Other sources for EEC treaties include the Encyclopedia of European Community Law, a Sweet and Maxwell looseleaf, which began publishing in 1973. It consists of volumes devoted to UK sources of law, European Community treaties, and EEC legislation. The CCH Common Market Reporter also republishes EEC treaties. Also, the T.M. Asser Institute's Guide to EEC-Legislation is an index to EEC treaties and other legislation appearing in the Official Journal. In addition, Sources of International Uniform Law (K. Zweigert ed. 1971), a multivolume set, reprints many conventions and agreements, including those of the EEC. However, in this source the materials are grouped by subject rather than by signatories. Competition Law in Western Europe and the USA (D.J. Gijlstra ed.), a Kluwer publication, is a looseleaf service reprinting EEC legislation in force in the area of business and trade. It also provides specialized commentary.

Treaties and other agreements between or among EEC Member States appear in the Official Journal, L series when the Commission presents them to the Council of Ministers. These treaties are difficult to find in the Official Journal indexes since they are indexed under the enabling Treaty article (article 220) but the Encyclopedia of European Community Law and the Common Market Reporter both reprint and/or index them.

The European Conventions and Agreements/Conventions et Accords Europeans (published by the Council of Europe from 1971 to date) is a valuable set of EEC treaties dating from 1949. Treaties appear only in the original language or languages.

Member State agreements which do not have the status of treaties appear in the Directory of Community Legislation in Force by document number according to the subject of the agreement. For example, an agricultural agreement between the EC and Canada under article 28 of GATT appears under the designation Agriculture: 03.80 267 A 065(01) on page 357 of the 1988 Directory. These agreements are identified as complementary acts and can have the impact of treaties although the EEC officially refers to them as supplementary rather than basic legislation.

The Collection of the Agreements Concluded by the European Communities is a multivolume set which includes the texts of agreements between the EEC member countries and third parties. Although these are also available in the Official Journal the Collected Agreements is much more accessible. The set also reprints important secondary legislation. The Official Journal, L series updates the Collected Acts with recent EEC-third party treaties. Use the Directory of Community Legislation in Force and Other Acts of the Community Institutions (previously called the Register of Current Community Legal Instruments) to identify treaties still in force. The Directory, published in all official EEC languages, is a computer generated product which also includes other binding and non-binding legislation in force as of December 1st of the current year.

The EEC’s major organ is the Official Journal of the European Communities. This publication is available in each of the Community’s official languages (English, French, Danish, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian, Dutch and Greek). Most, but not all, official documents of the EEC appear in the Official Journal; for those which do not see the Commission Documents.

law to its philosophy and practice. D. Lasok and J.W. Bridge, Law and Institutions of the European Communities (4th ed. 1987), is a readable and well-indexed introduction to EEC law and policy. Finally, a researcher might want to refer to H. Smit and P.E. Herzog, The Law of the European Economic Community: A Commentary on the EEC Treaty (1976). This frequently updated looseleaf, is an erudite and complete discussion of the meaning and impact of the Treaty of Rome. It contains discussions of each of the articles and up to date and well considered bibliographies on various topics.\(^5\)

B. Official Sources of Ordinary Legislation

Legislation derived through the authority of the founding EEC treaties is referred to as ordinary (secondary) legislation. It includes regulations which have the force of law, directives and decisions, which are binding on the party or parties involved (see the sections on the Council of Ministers and the Court of Justice) and recommendations, which are just that.

Publication in the Official Journal, L series (part I) puts Council of Ministers and Commission regulations into effect. The Official Journal indexes these regulations by subject or by form and date of enactment. Sub-agencies or the four branches of the EEC also publish information on legislation in their various areas of interest. The European Parliament publication Europe Today: State of European Integration, which is regularly updated, emphasizes EP activities, including EP reports and opinions, and summarizes important legislation. Another useful publication is General Report on the Activities of the European Communities. This source is particularly useful because it is general and it is published on an annual basis. Also see the publications listed under the sections devoted to the four branches of the EEC.

Other helpful general publications are the annual reports such as the Report on Competition Policy and the Report on the Social Situation.

In addition, the publications already listed for EEC treaties and agreements, Europe: Bulletin Quotidien, published by Agence France-Presse, Halsbury’s Statutes, which devotes volumes 51 and 51A of the fourth edition to EEC law, and various commercial updating services, most commonly published as newsletters are useful.

Printed newsletters are an obvious source of current information. Most good newsletters appear in a timely manner, not more than two weeks after the events described therein, and frequently, not less than \(^5\) For a thorough and scholarly explanation of the workings of EC bibliography see Kearley, An American Researcher’s Guide to European Communities Law and Legal Literature, 75 L. LIBR. J. 52 (1982). This article includes an exhaustive amount of material in a relatively short number of pages.

---

twenty-four times a year. For non-practitioners, and barring special circumstances, a newsletter appearing monthly will probably give adequate coverage. Beware of newsletters which do not give citations to statutes, bills or court cases or which do not provide adequate information to the reader to find further information.

Good newsletters originate from many different sources. Commercial publishers produce some, government agencies, non-profit institutions and private groups produce others. Prices range widely; some newsletters, particularly from database vendors who want to tout new product features, may be free. Note that "free" does not necessarily connote "poor quality"; the Butterworths' publication Justis News is of high quality, very informative, and free although it does not appear frequently. Other newsletters are listed in the last section of this pathfinder regarding Emerging Issues: The Single European Act.

Justis News

This source is available from Robin Williamson, Managing Director, Context Limited, Assets House, Elverton Street, London SW1P 2QG England. Justis News is produced as a service to subscribers of Justis On-line. See the section on databases for more information. It includes recent court cases with a short analysis indicating the importance of the case, coverage of recent EEC proposals in all areas, and notations concerning new statutes.

C. Doing EEC Legislative History

While legislative history for the EEC is still in its infancy, compared to legislative history for U.S. statutes, the EEC does provide some documentation to aid the researcher in determining the origin and intended purpose of EEC legislation.

Council of Ministers ("COM") documents in both preliminary and final draft form are available on special request from the European Community Information Service. Until 1980 final COM proposals appeared in the European Parliament's Working Documents series. Now they appear as a single transmittal sheet in the Working Documents series. EP committee reports/deliberations are available in the EP's Working Documents series. The Working Documents series also includes oral and written questions which the EP proposes. However, these questions are not necessarily in conjunction with a proposal under consideration. These oral and written questions are often related to some situation which the EP feels needs attention from the Council and thus may tip off the researcher to future legislation. The Debates of the Council are available to document floor debate and the official record. For further information see the sections devoted to the EP, the Council, and the Commission.\footnote{Kearley, supra note 15, at 87-89.}

\section*{D. \textit{Databases}}

\subsection*{1. CELEX}

The major database devoted to the EEC is the CELEX database, which is comprehensive, but fairly complex and difficult to use. CELEX provides the full text of establishing and amending EEC treaties, acts of the EC, secondary and supplemental legislation, and ECJ case law. It provides references to COM documents and other European Parliament materials and national legislation implementing EEC law. New material promised for CELEX includes national court decisions interpreting EEC law and citations to secondary materials on EEC law. CELEX is available from; Eurobases, Commission of the European Communities, Rue de la Loi 200 B-1049 Brussels, Belgium. CELEX has also recently become available (through PROFILE) on DATATIMES, a U.S. database vendor. At this time, search capabilities are limited to one term or concept at a time, and concepts cannot be combined. Thus, although CELEX on DATATIMES is more “user-friendly” than the CELEX database available directly from the EC, searches are less specific and therefore may be less useful and more expensive. DATATIMES’ address is Parkway Plaza, Suite 450, 14000 Quail Springs Parkway, Oklahoma City, OK 73134.

\subsection*{2. JUSTIS}

Context, a British company, has produced an online service, called JUSTIS, which searches CELEX. JUSTIS searches references only and provides a gateway to CELEX for the full text. Context also produces a CD-ROM version of Section L of the \textit{Official Journal}. The CD-ROM version provides full text and its menu-driven system is easy to use. Available from: Context Limited, Assets House, Elverton Street, London SW1P 2QG or Global Transactions Inc., P.O. Box 298, 1451 Drum Hill Road, Martinsville, NJ 08836. A demo disk is available for $10.
3. EC 1992

Deloitte, Haskins and Sells, the accounting firm, produces the EC 1992 database, which consists of in-depth reports on the progress of European Community integration. Presently, EC 1992 is available through Infotrade and on Profile, two European host services and on the U.S.-based DATATIMES. Available from: Deloitte, Haskins and Sells, Wheatsheaf House, 24 Bernard Street, Southampton S09 1QL. See also T. Hanson, “The EC 1992 Database from Deloitte, Haskins and Sells,” 1 European Access 16 (Feb. 1989).

4. INFO 92

The European Commission produces Info 92 on its Eurobases host. This source also provides access to CELEX and SCAD, the online bibliography of EEC publications. Available from: Commission of the European Communities, Eurobases, 200, rue de la Loi, B-1049 Brussels, Belgium.

5. LEXIS

Mead Data Central of Dayton, Ohio produces LEXIS, which is available in Europe through Butterworths. LEXIS provides the full text of the Official Journal, L series (in French only), in the INTNAT library, the European Court Reports, Common Market Law Reports, and several other libraries of EC materials can be found. Available from: LEXIS, Mead Data Central, 9333 Springboro Pike, Miamisburg, OH 45342.

6. POLIS

Meridian Systems Management manages the Parliamentary Online Information System (“POLIS”) for the British House of Commons. It emphasizes Parliamentary materials since 1978. Material appearing in POLIS appears approximately five working days after it is published in Hansard’s. Available from: Meridian Systems Management, 18 Elmfleld Road, Bromley, Kent BR1 1LR.

7. SPEARHEAD

The British government’s Department of Trade and Industry (“DTI”) produces Spearhead. Spearhead provides summaries of European Parliamentary reports and legislation. It is available on host database services PROFILE, DATATIMES, and JUSTIS. Contact either Context Limited, the producers of JUSTIS, Profile Information, Sunbury House, 79 Staines Road West, Sunbury on Thames, Middlesex TW16 7AH, or DATATIMES.
8. PROFILE

Profile is a host service rather than a database. It is available from the Financial Times of London.

9. SPICERS CENTRE FOR EUROPE

Spicers Centre for Europe began as an inhouse database for the Irish firm of Spicer and Oppenheim. Its value is in its coverage of non-legal information, such as economic and technical information. It is not meant for public use; however, in house professionals can search the database for outside users on request. Contact: Spicers Centre for Europe, 10-12 East Parade, Leeds LS1 2AJ, or Spicer & Oppenheim, Oliver Freaney & Co., 43/45 Northumberland Road, Ballsbridge, Dublin 4, Northern Ireland.

Michael Lloyd, Legal Databases in Europe: User Attitudes and Supplier Strategies (1986). This source is a comprehensive look at the subject, based on a 1985 report submitted to the Commission of the European Communities.17

E. General Bibliography on the European Economic Communities

In addition to titles already listed above, the following are names of useful publications on general EEC law as well as the law applicable in specific areas. The list is necessarily selective, and includes older materials for their historical as well as substantive value. Exclusion of a title does not connote disapproval; rather, this compilation is a brief overview of the relevant sources examined by this author.

1. General Works

A. Campbell, Common Market Law (1969). This is a multivolume set covering community law, agriculture, trade, industrial property, transportation, the Court of Justice, EEC-third party agreements, and reciprocal enforcement of judgments.

Supplemented by:

17 A very recent article giving crucial information about a number of new EC databases is Hensley, supra note 13, at 45.

Documents on the History of European Integration.

Includes materials on plans for European union (1939-1945) and six microfiche.

Encyclopedia of European Community Law (1973). Looseleaf, published by Sweet and Maxwell containing all acts in the L series of the Official Journal of the European Communities, except agricultural acts. This is a major source for all EEC law.

European Communities, Office for Official Publications, Treaties Establishing the European Communities. This is a valuable compilation of EEC treaties.

2. Bibliographies, Directories and Research Aids

R.J.B. Anderson, French-English Glossary of French Legal Terms in European Treaties (1972) is somewhat dated, but it relates the basic EEC documents to traditional French law and helps the common law-trained attorney to understand the impact of pan-European legal concepts on the French legal system.

The European Community: Bibliographic Excursions (J. Lodge ed. 1983).

European Directory of Non-Official Statistical Sources.

J. Paxton, A Dictionary of the European Community (2d ed. 1982).

Law reviews devoted primarily or totally to EC law include:

European Law Review. Published by Sweet & Maxwell since 1975.

In addition, many of the law reviews in the United States specializing in international law are devoting issues to the EEC.

3. Periodical Indices

The following indices contain citations to books and journal articles on the EEC: Current Law Index, Index to Legal Periodicals, Index to Foreign Legal Periodicals, Index to Periodical Articles Related to Law, Public Affairs Information Service (PAIS). Online periodical indices include Legal Research Index (LEXIS and WESTLAW, DIALOG), LEGALTRAC (CD-ROM equivalent of Current Law Index) and PAIS (DIALOG). The online version of the HMSO catalog (British Official Publications) also has citations to official UK publications on EEC law.

4. Specialized works

a. Agriculture

b. Application of EEC law in Member Nations

Modern Legal Systems Cyclopedia (K. Redden ed. 1984) is a looseleaf devoted to legal and political systems of all nations and includes two volumes on the legal systems of the EEC countries by country. Other useful titles include:

c. Business and Trade Law

Company Law in Europe (1975).

d. Foreign Policy

e. Information Policy

f. Labor Law

g. The Legal System

The Political and Legal Framework of Trade Relations Between the European Community and Eastern Europe (1989).

J. Schwarze, *The Role of the European Court of Justice in the Interpreta-

J.A. Usher, European Court Practice (1983).

D.G. Valentine, The Court of Justice of the European Communities (1965). Volume 1 includes statutes, rules of courts, and other documents. Volume 2 includes all judgments given by the European Coal and Steel Community Court and the Court of Justice until 1960.

h. Professions and Services

D. Lasok, The Professions and Services in the European Economic Community (1986).

i. Taxation

Tax Coordination in the European Community (S. Cnossen ed. 1985).

F. Current Awareness Services for EEC Issues

Printed current awareness services for EEC issues include: Bulletin of Legal Developments ("BLD"). Biweekly. Available from: British Institute of International and Comparative Law, Charles Clore House, 17 Russell Square, London WD1B 5DR. The EEC section contains news of new laws or cases from Member States.

C & L Belmont Monitor. Looseleaf, updated monthly. Available from: C & L Belmont, 2 Avenue de Tervuren, B-1040 Brussels, Belgium. This publication also provides a document delivery service. Not as current as the BLD or the EC Brief.
Europe. Published Monday through Saturday. Available from: Agence Internationale d'Information pour la Presse, 10 Boulevard Saint Lazare, B-1210 Brussels, Belgium. Indexed monthly by Eurosynt.

Useful newspapers among many newspapers distributed worldwide are The Financial Times of London and the International Herald Tribune. English-language legal journals which cover EEC developments include the Law Society Gazette, the New Law Journal, the Solicitor's Journal, the Bulletin of Northern Ireland Law, the Journal of the Law Society of Scotland, and the Scottish Law Gazette.

The NEXIS service on LEXIS/NEXIS offers several interesting files for persons doing research in EEC. Besides the specific newspaper and magazine files such as the New York Times ("NYT"), the Manchester Guardian Weekly ("MAGRWK"), the Daily/Sunday Telegraph ("TELEGR"), and U.S. News & World Report ("USNEWS"), NEXIS also offers wire services: the Associated Press ("AP"), the Reuter Business Report ("BUSRPT"), the Reuter Library Report ("LBYRPT"), the Reuter News Reports ("REUTER"), the Telegraph Agency of the Soviet Union ("TASS"), and United Press International ("UPI"). In addition, NEXIS offers specialized newsletters in various areas such as the International Petrochemical Report ("PETCHM"). The NEWS group file is a good choice for a cross-section of papers, wires, magazines, specialized newsletters and reporting services and television/radio broadcasts that cover EEC developments. The PERSON group file can help a researcher identify materials about specific EEC figures. The GOVT group file contains U.S. and some United Nations publications that cover the EEC. However, a more useful file is the INTL group file which contains the following files:

- ABECOR
- Associated Banks of Europe:
  - Country Reports
  - BBC Summary of World
  - Broadcasts and Monitoring Reports (since Jan. 1979)
- CENEWS
- Central News Agency reports from April 1984
- DOSBUL
  - U.S. Department of State
    - Bulletin
- ECON
  - The Economist from Jan. 1975
International brokerage house reports are available in the INTL file of the COMPNY library. Various international brokerage house research reports are also available, such as BA (Bain Securities) and MI (Midland Doherty Limited).

The REPORT library contains country reports of which the TOPICS file, containing combined subject reports, and the EU, FRANCE, BELG, DEN, WGER, GREECE, IRE, ITALY, NETHER, PORT, and SPAIN files are the most useful for EEC information. The International News Library ("INTNEW") library has full-text materials on international events and contains several British publications. The ALERT file in the ALERT library contains full-text wire service stories and is updated four times a day.

IV. THE STRUCTURE OF THE EEC

The European Economic Community functions through four branches of government: the European Commission, the Council of Ministers, the Court of Justice, and the European Parliament. Each is separately discussed below.

A. The European Commission

The European Commission operates through twenty-two Directorates-General as well as other agencies such as the Secretariat General, the Spokesman's Service, and the Office of Official Publications. The Directorates-General and their areas of authority are listed below.\(^\text{18}\)

- DGI: External Relations
- DGII: Economic and Financial Affairs
- DGIII: Internal Market and Industry
- DGIV: Competition
- DGV: Employment, Social Affairs,
- DGV: Education
- DGVII: Agriculture

---

The seventeen Members of the European Commission are appointed by the Member States (two each from the larger nations and one each from the smaller ones). Member nations may reappoint their representatives. Each Commissioner is responsible for one or more specialized areas of EEC policy. Commissioners initiate policy by proposing legislation (see THE EEC LEGISLATIVE PROCESS IN BRIEF), applying enactments and treaties to specific situations, and overseeing EEC finances (preparation of the budget and disbursement of funds). For present Commissioners and their areas of responsibility see the Official Journal L series.

Commission trade and competition policy decisions are also available on LEXIS in the EURCOM library, COMDEC file from 1972. The Commission also publishes reports on various subjects, primarily business and trade, in its Commission of the European Communities, Studies, series.

B. The Council of Ministers

The Council of Ministers derives its authority from article 145 of the EEC Treaty and acts as the primary decision maker and legislative body for the EEC. It consists of one representative from each Member State.

---

20 For general information on the workings of the Council see S.A. Budd & A. Jones, supra note 18, at 39-42; Introduction to the Law, supra note 4, 108-113; T.C. Hartley, supra note 19, at 13-15.
The President of the Council is chosen by rotation among the representatives and serves for six months. The Council may enact Commission proposals and coordinate economic policy among Member States. The Council publishes a Guide to the Council of the European Communities, issued twice a year. It also issues an annual review of its work: Review of the Council's Work. COREPER, a committee consisting of member state representatives, discusses, studies, and reports information needed for the formation of legislation.

The Council's official acts include:

Regulations. All member nations must abide by Council regulations, which are published in the Official Journal and take effect twenty days after publication unless the text of the regulation decrees otherwise.

Directives. Directives apply to specific member nations. The member nation named may decide on the method of carrying out the directive. Directives become operational upon notice to all parties involved.

Decisions. Decisions are Council rulings applicable only to specific fact patterns and parties. These parties can be member nations, corporations, or persons. Decisions become binding upon notice to all parties involved.

Recommendations. Recommendations are not binding.

Opinions. Opinions are not binding.

The Review of the Council's Work is published by the General Secretariat of the Council of Ministers and is a well balanced overview of the year's work of the Council. It references the Official Journal where appropriate (i.e. for citations to important legislation for the year) and also includes a subject index. The Review is published in the official languages of the EEC.

The Guide to the Council of the European Communities is a directory in looseleaf form for updating. It contains general information such as current representatives to the Council, procedural and jurisdictional information, and information on nations associated with the EEC, such as former colonies.

C. The Court of Justice of the European Communities

1. Structure of the Court.

The Court consists of thirteen judges and six advocates-general,

---

21 T.C. Hartley, supra note 19, at 15.
whose appointment is agreed on by all Member States. The members serve staggered six year renewable terms. The Court may hear cases concerning Member States, EC institutions and agencies, and individuals. The Court will also issue advisory opinions to national courts wishing an interpretation of EC law. The Court’s official language is French. Because of the steadily increasing workload of the Court, the EC set up a Court of First Instance to hear specific types of cases. Cases are appealable only as provided by statute.

2. Court Reports

A number of publications publish court reports for the EEC. The Official Journal, C series, part I gives reports of judgments. Otherwise law reports and opinions of the Advocates-General are available in Reports of Cases Before the Court. These reports are published in the official languages of the EEC and because of translation and publication difficulties appear six months to a year after the judgments are rendered. The following is a sample citation from the Reports of Cases Before the Courts:

As the official reporter for Court decisions, the Report of Cases, referred to as European Court Reports, is the preferred source for citation. However, because it is so slow in publication, the Common Market Reporter and the Common Market Law Reports, two commercial English-language publications are necessary to locate court decisions in a timely manner. Note that court reports and preliminary rulings are available on LEXIS in the EURCOM library, CASES file, from 1960. Unreported cases and preliminary rulings are available from 1980. The EURCOM library also reports national decisions interpreting EEC law and reports from the European Court of Human Rights.

Reports of cases decided by the court in its prior incarnation are available in Court of Justice of the European Coal and Steel Community, Reports of Cases Before the Court.

Some cases are reported in major newspapers such as The Times of London and the New Law Journal. Proceedings of the Court of Justice of 23 INTRODUCTION TO THE LAW, supra note 4, at 145-59; D.C. FREESTONE & J.S. DAVIDSON, supra note 22, at 133-38.

---

24 EEC Treaty, supra note 1, art. 175.
25 Id. art. 177.
26 Council Decision No. 88/591/ECSC, EEC, Euratom, 31 O.J. EUR. COMM. (No. L 319) 1 (1988) (Establishing a Court of First Instance of the European Communities); See also INTRODUCTION TO THE LAW, supra note 4, at 149.
the European Communities gives summaries of the Court's activities in the official languages and includes judgments and opinions.

For national court decisions interpreting EEC law, see National Decisions Concerning Community Law, an annual publication published by the OOP, as well as the court reports of Member States. Note that the Court of Justice does not have original jurisdiction to determine how Member States will apply EEC law, but upon application from a national court, it will issue a preliminary ruling.

Court of Justice of the European Communities: List of Judgments (1973) is a chronological list of judgments rendered, giving names of the parties, language in which the case was argued and subject matter of the case. The citations are in French, but if an English translation was available prior to publication, that is indicated. The List of Judgments also serves as an index to English-language versions of reports rendered prior to 1973.

For cases interpreting the treaties establishing the EEC, see Bibliographie zur Europaéischen Rechtsprechung betreffnd die Entscheidung zu den Verträgen über die Grundung der Europaéischen Gemeinschaften Nachtragslieferung, Bibliography of European Case Law: Decisions Relating to the Treaties Establishing the European Communities. The English title is Bibliography of European Judicial Decisions. Subject headings are in French. See also Publications Concerning European Integration for other legal matters. Each volume has four indexes: Numerical index to the Treaties and Regulations; Decisions and Directives; Author index and Chronological Table of Decisions. The Bibliography first appeared in 1965 with supplements appearing in 1967, 1968, 1968, 1970, 1973, and 1976. In 1976, the Bibliography changed its title to the Bulletin Bibliographique de Jurisprudence Communautaire. Also see Community Law which is published by the OOP in relation to the General Report on the Activities of the European Community.

Selected Instruments Relating to the Organization, Jurisdiction, and Procedure of the Court appeared in its third edition in 1976. It contains jurisdictional and procedural documents and the Court's Rules and is a concise and useful guide. The Court Registry publishes a calendar of hearings every week.

3. Other Court Publications

Other important Court publications include:

Information on the Court of Justice of the European Communities. Quarterly. Began in 1968. Gives a summary of important cases before the Court (similar to the Supreme Court section of U.S. Law Week). In 1971, the Court began publishing everything in all of the official languages.

Synopsis of the Work of the Court of Justice of the European Communities. Began in 1968. It is an annual free publication and is published in the official languages.

Formal Hearings of the Court of Justice of the European Communities/Audiences Solennelles de la Cour de Justice. Free. Provides text of addresses given at the opening sessions of the Court.

4. Digests and Finding Aids

Finding European Community case law can be as bewildering as finding any other type of EEC material. Several official and commercial publishers offer finding tools of varying quality to assist in the task.

Other indexes to EEC case law include European Court of Justice Reports: A Digest of All Decisions and Opinions of the European Court of Justice, which began in 1982 and Digest of Case-Law Relating to the European Communities, which began in 1981 and is published by the OOP.

The European Law Centre publishes European Law Digest, which summarizes cases decided and includes a list of treaties and treaty provisions referred to, courts rendering the decisions digested, and EEC legislation interpreted.

5. Specialized Reporters

The European Law Centre publishes European Commercial Cases, English language versions of full court opinions in the areas of copyrights, patents, and trademarks, conflicts of laws, enforcement of foreign judgments, arbitration, insurance and other business and labor topics. The official citation form is [year] E.C.C. [page].

6. Bibliography

Listed below are some monographs on the workings and policy of the Court. See also the section on "The Legal System" in the general bibliography earlier in this pathfinder.

D. The EEC Legislative Process in Brief

The Commission of the European Communities makes a proposal to the Council of Ministers, which assigns it a COM document number and forwards it to the European Parliament with a request for a recommendation. The EP republishes the COM document as an EP Working Document, studies it, offers the Council its opinion, and requests further clarification or modification or requests the Council to withdraw the proposal. If applicable the ECOSOC is also consulted and issues a report or recommendation. The proposal with EP and ECOSOC recommendations returns to the Commission. The Commission makes any changes deemed necessary and forwards the final proposal to the Council of Ministers which votes on it. The EP recommendation and the Commission proposal are both published in the Official Journal, Information and Notices, C series, a daily publication. If the Council vote is favorable, the new legislation, proposal, directive, decision or other action appears in the Official Journal, Legislation, L series (daily). The new legislation takes effect on publication or within 20 days after publication in the Official Journal, Legislation.

E. The European Parliament

1. Structure of the European Parliament

The European Parliament currently consists of 518 members directly elected by the populations of all Member States. Representation is by population. The EP meets in Strasbourg for one week each month except in August. The EP may adopt or reject the annual budget, make recommendations on all proposals formulated by the Commission, and dismiss the Commission. Members of the EP also have the power to submit questions to the Commission, Council and Council of Foreign Ministers and present questions for discussion during their scheduled sessions.

The Assembly which meets regularly at Strasbourg to debate issues concerning the EEC has come to be known as the European Parliament. See the Resolution of March 20, 1958, Journal Officiel (June 1958); Resolution of March 20, 1962, Journal Officiel (1045/62); Single European Act ("SEA"), art. 3. For a good overview of the history, powers and duties of the EP, see P.J.G. Kapteyn & P. Verloren van Themaat, Introduction to the Law of the European Communities (2d ed. 1989). Its function is essentially to advise and influence the Commission and Council of Ministers. A good source for the history, workings, and importance of the European Parliament is Sir Barnett Cocks, The European Parliament (1973), which although an older work, is extremely detailed and contains reprints of important treaties and other documents, such as the Rules of Procedure.

2. Bibliography of EP official publications

Debates: Reports of Proceedings.

Interim (non-official) version of the debates, transcribed only in the original language. Beginning with the 1968/69 session permanent, offi-

---

29 Id. EEC Treaty, supra note 1, art. 165-67 (as amended by the Act of Accession, art. 17-19); See also, The Court of Justice of the European Community, (Periodical 5/1986), at 7 (1986).

30 The Court of Justice of the European Community, supra note 29, at 32.

31 Id. at 33.

32 Id.
cial versions of the debates with corrections by the speaker and in the official languages of the EEC appear in the Annex to the Official Journal.

Prior to 1968 (from 1952 to 1967/68) the Debate of the European Coal and Steel Community General Assembly appeared separately in the official languages of the ECSC. Beginning with 1958 the European Parliament also began publishing its debates in the official Community languages.

The interim formal record of EP proceedings is the Minutes of Proceedings of the Sittings of the European Parliament, translated into all the official languages. Like the Debates it is an interim version of the proceedings. The official record appears in the Information and Notices section of the Official Journal.

There are concordances of the debates from 1952 to 1976/77 prepared by the Archives Department of the Directorate-General for Sessional and General Services. These are published in European Parliament document number PE 54.143 (June 1978). This publication is outdated but still useful since it explains the organization of the EEC in historical as well as bureaucratic terms.

There is also a Summary Report which precedes publication of the Debates. It is entirely unofficial and is provided for the convenience of observers.

Other useful publications include:

Every year the Secretariat of the European Parliament publishes a list of all resolutions passed during the year. Each list consists of four parts, chronological order of adoption, subject, procedure, and text of the resolution all of which are indexed.

The EP also publishes a variety of documents which may or may not circulate outside the EP. Each document is given a number.

The Working Documents receive both an internal and external number. The external number, to which non-EP users will find references, is based on the year of the parliament then sitting and an accession or order number (e.g. 1/90 for the first Working Document issued in 1990). They are indexed in the Annex to the Official Journal. Many of the Working Documents are actually COM documents with an added title page. Unfortunately, cross references between the Working Documents and the COM documents are hard to come by. Some of the COM documents which become Working Documents were initially issued for internal use only, such as the General Report on the Activities of the European Communities.34

---

Generally, when the EP receives a COM document it assigns it to the appropriate EP Committee for study:

Agriculture
Budgetary Control
Budgets
Development and Cooperation
Economic and Monetary Affairs
Energy and Research
Environment, Public Health and Consumer Protection
External Economic Relations
Legal Affairs
Political Affairs
Regional Policy and Regional Planning
Rules of Procedure and Petitions
Social Affairs and Employment
Transport
Youth Affairs, Culture, Education, Information and Sport

The committee examines the document and makes an advisory report to the EP.

The Working Documents series also includes reports and surveys which the EP itself commissions.

Members of the EP receive the European Parliament Bulletin, published in the official languages, which indicates upcoming activities. It also lists recently published Working Documents and recent petitions from individuals and organizations. The EP also publishes Committee Agendas listing documents to be discussed.

The EP publishes much specialized material, particularly on elections. The London Office of the EP also publishes the European Elections Briefing.

The EP also publishes a number of reference works including bibli-oographies. These include a Library Bulletin which lists new library acquisitions and appears monthly, the European Parliament Bibliography, beginning in 1970, and various specialized historical bibliographies:

Unless otherwise indicated, all materials are available either from the Commission's Main Office or from the Publications Section, European Community, 2100 M Street N.W., 7th Floor, Washington, D.C. 20037.

V. SUBAGENCIES OF THE EEC

A. European Patent Office

The European Patent Office received its mandate from the Convention on the Grant of European Patents, European Patent Convention, with Related Documents, Munich, 5 October 1973 (HMSO Command Paper 5656 (1974)) and began its work in 1978. For the workings of the European system of patents, see Catalogue of the Publications of the European Community Institutions 1972-73. For patent examination procedures see Draft Guidelines for Examination in the European Patent Office (1976), kept up to date by supplementation. Applicable conventions include:

Encyclopedia of United Kingdom and European Patent Law, a Sweet and Maxwell looseleaf, is a comprehensive and scholarly discussion of the area, including many explanatory footnotes.

B. Economic and Social Committee ("ECOSOC" OR "ESC")

The 189 members of ECOSOC represent diverse segments of EEC society including labor, management, and consumers.\(^{35}\) The Council of Ministers appoints them for four year renewable terms on the nomination of Member States. At their monthly meetings, ECOSOC members may offer opinions to the Commission and Council on various subjects.\(^{36}\) Useful publications of the ECOSOC include:

Economic and Social Committee Annual Report. Annual.

Index: List of Members of the Bureau, Committee, Groups, and Sections. Annual.

All ECOSOC publications are indexed in the EC Index (for the period 1984-1986).

C. European Coal and Steel Consultative Committee

ECSC members meet quarterly and in specially called sessions to discuss all matters mentioned in the European Coal and Steel Treaty. ESCS members represent all facets of the coal and steel industry, including consumers, and their recommendations are binding on the Council.

\(^{35}\) Id. at 39.

D. European Court of Auditors

The twelve member Court of Auditors\(^{37}\) is appointed by the Council to six year terms.\(^{38}\) The Court audits EC accounts, prepares the EC annual financial statement, and aids EC institutions in their auditory functions.\(^{39}\) Its report appears in the \textit{Official Journal}.

E. European Investment Bank

The EIB makes long terms loans or guarantees to promote regional development, multi-nation development, and projects in developing countries that have treaties or other links with the EC.\(^{40}\) The EIB receives its funds from Member States or borrows it on the open market. The administration consists of a Board of Governors, Board of Directors, and Management Committee.\(^{41}\)

F. Convention of Lomé Institutions

The African, Caribbean, and Pacific nations with ties to EEC Member States belong to this Convention, established by the Lomé Convention of 1979. The ACP-EEC Council of Ministers (a joint council) works with the Committee of Ambassadors and the ACP-EEC Consultative Assembly to work out trade assistance for ACP nations in areas such as export earnings and mineral products. The Council of Ministers of the European Communities issues an \textit{Annual Report of the ACP-EEC Council of Ministers}.

VI. EMERGING ISSUES: THE SINGLE EUROPEAN ACT

The coming into force of the Single European Act has brought the reality of 1992 even closer. Its directives on uniform currency, single citizenship, and the lowering of trade barriers have an obvious impact on the member nations, and repercussions outside the EEC.\(^{42}\) Although few \(^{37}\) S.A. \\textit{Budd} & A. \textit{Jones}, \textit{supra} note 18, at 45; \textit{Introduction to the Law, supra} note 4, at 173-74.

\(^{38}\) \textit{Introduction to the Law, supra} note 4, at 174.

\(^{39}\) \textit{Id.}

\(^{40}\) \textit{Id.}

\(^{41}\) \textit{Id.}

\(^{42}\) \textit{Introduction to the Law, supra} note 4, at 843-845; Taylor, \textit{The New Dynamics of EC Integration in the 1980s, 3 The EUR. Community and the Challenge of the Future} 8-14 (J. Lodge ed. 1989). Numerous articles have already been written discussing the impact of the SEA. See, among others Evans, \textit{European Citizenship}, 45 \textit{Mod. L. Rev.} 497 (1982) and Clark, \textit{Legal Principles of Non-Socialist Economic Integration As Exemplified by the European Economic Community}, 8 \textit{Syracuse J. Int’l L. & Comm.} I (1980). An issue of particular interest to lawyers is the role of attorneys in the EC and the access of U.S. lawyers to the EC courts. A cottage industry of literature on this topic has already sprung up. Articles include Schloh, \textit{Freedom of Movement of Lawyers Within the European Economic Community}, 9 \textit{St. Louis U. Pub. L. Rev.} 83 (1990); Wal-monographic works on the Act have appeared as of yet, several journals have published articles on the impact of the SEA on various areas.

The Practising Law Institute has already offered several courses in the area of EEC law and its impact on the United States.

The United States Congress and various administrative offices have already started to publish reports of studies conducted on the likely impact of the Act on the United States. Among the reports likely to be referred to often are:

In addition, three journals devoted to the impact of 1992 have recently begun publication. These publications have not been reviewed by this author at this time.

on April 7, 1989. Published by BURAFF Publications (Washington, D.C.).

The following titles are a sampling of the many articles now analyzing the Act:

The above articles are only two of several that can be found in volume 24 of the Common Market Law Review issue, which is devoted to the impact of the Single European Act.

VII. CONCLUSION

The immediate research problem will dictate the approach that a researcher will take regarding EEC law. The law student will want to begin with the various scholarly treatises currently and soon to become available in the area. For the student the printed indexes will undoubtedly be the most cost-effective and efficient method of locating information.
The practitioner with a trial deadline or a very specific legal question may want to begin with a database search, but should be careful to identify terms and concepts before going online. Most of the online services are extremely costly as well as cumbersome, and the researcher will need a substantial amount of training before he or she goes online. Although this pathfinder is intended for the practitioner and the beginning EEC researcher rather than the specialist, it is hoped that the resources listed will lead anyone interested in the EEC to valuable information and to the successful resolution of his or her questions or problems.